

Dental Student Research in Oral Pathology

The American Academy of Oral and Maxillofacial Pathology is offering awards, for dental students who have conducted research in the field of Oral Pathology, to attend the annual meeting of the AAOMP and present their research findings. An award of $1,000 will be provided. The 2009 AAOMP meeting is in Montreal, Canada, May 16-20. Meeting registration fees are waived for awardees.

Abstract submission will be selected for either platform presentation or poster presentation. The scientific program committee will inform awardees which type of presentation has been selected. Research topics include basic pathobiology, oral pathology and clinical oral pathology.

To apply for the award, you must submit an abstract of your research. You may, of course, list other authors who mentored or assisted you. Abstracts from previous Essay Programs and guidelines for submission of abstracts can be found at:
<http://www.aaomp.org/general/annualmtg.html>.

NOTICE: Be sure to indicate on the abstract submission form that you are applying for the “Dental Student Research Travel Award”. The deadline for electronic submission of abstracts is January 15, 2009.
